Eldrick (Tiger) Woods, now 44 years old, has had an unprecedented career since becoming a professional golfer in the late summer of 1996. He has won 107 tournaments, 82 of those on the PGA TOUR, including the 1997, 2001, 2002, 2005, 2019 Masters Tournaments, 1999, 2000, 2006, and 2007 PGA Championships, 2000, 2002, and 2008 U.S. Open Championships, and 2000, 2005, and 2006 British Open Championships. With his second Masters victory in 2001, Tiger became the first ever to hold all four professional major championships at the same time.

In winning the 2000 British Open at St. Andrews, Woods became the youngest to complete the career Grand Slam of professional major championships and only the fifth ever to do so, following Ben Hogan, Gene Sarazen, Gary Player and Jack Nicklaus. Tiger also was the youngest Masters champion ever, at the age of 21 years, three months and 14 days, and was the first major championship winner of African or Asian heritage.

Woods shares (with Jordan Spieth, 2015) the record for the low score in relation to par at the Masters with an 18 under par total 270 set at the 1997 Masters. He held the record of 269 (19 under par) in the 2000 British Open until 2016. He held the U.S. Open records of 272 and 12 under par (set in the 2000) until 2011 and he shared the record of 270 (18 under par) with Bob May in the 2000 PGA Championship, which Tiger won by one stroke in a three-hole playoff, until 2015.

The U.S. Open and Masters victories came by record margins, 15 strokes and 12 strokes respectively, and the U.S. Open triumph swept aside the 13-stroke major championship standard which had stood for 138 years, established by Old Tom Morris in the 1862 British Open. The record margin for the U.S. Open had been 11 strokes by Willie Smith in 1899. In the Masters, Woods broke the record margin of nine strokes set by Nicklaus in 1965. Tiger won the British Open by eight strokes, the largest margin since J. H. Taylor in 1913.

He is the career victories leader among active players on the PGA TOUR, and is the career money list leader. In 2012 he passed Jack Nicklaus for second in PGA TOUR career victories (then 74) trailing only Sam Snead (82).

Tiger owns the record total on the PGA TOUR career money list with $115,504,853 through 2018, and had won $139,095,844 worldwide.

In addition to his playing exploits, Woods is busy off the course too.

In October of 2016, Woods unveiled TGR (pronounced 'T-G-R'), a new enterprise that is the umbrella organization of his numerous endeavors.

Led by Tiger's vision and inspired by his commitment to greatness on and off the golf course, TGR reflects the mindset, method, and mastery that have remained constant throughout Tiger's lifelong pursuit of excellence.

This new enterprise unites Tiger's businesses within a single brand that reflects his vast experience in philanthropy, design, performance, partnerships, events and hospitality. Elements include the TGR Foundation, TGR Live, TGR Design and The Woods Jupiter restaurant, Established in 1996, for over 20 years, the TGR Foundation has been an unwavering advocate for the transformative power of education. We have humble beginnings and a universal vision: giving students in need the right resources for lifelong success in school, their communities and the working world. We don't allow our students to exist with labels or restrictions or stigmas. Instead, we empower them to exceed any and all expectations. Through our award-winning STEM curricula, college-access programs and teacher professional development, the TGR Foundation offers underserved students the tools and support needed to thrive in school and beyond. We recently embarked on an ambitious expansion plan, bringing our unique philosophy and educational curriculum to millions of teachers and students around the world. Find more information at tgrfoundation.org.

In 2006, Woods announced the creation of TGR Design, a full-service golf course design firm dedicated to the creation of exceptional golf experiences. His first design, El Cardonal at Diamante in Cabo San Lucas, Mexico, opened in December 2014. Bluejack National, outside Houston, Texas, opened in 2016 and was named best new private golf course by Golf Digest and Golf Magazine/SI.

Tiger has also designed short courses at both Diamante and Bluejack National. These courses are fun, unintimidating environments where families and friends can come together, and new players can be introduced to the game.

His Web site is tigerwoods.com, Twitter is @TigerWoods, Instagram is @tigerwoods, Facebook is facebook.com/Tiger.

He is the son of Earl Woods, a retired lieutenant colonel in the U.S. Army, and his wife, Kultida, a native of Thailand. He was nicknamed Tiger after a Vietnamese soldier and friend of his father, Vuong Dang Phong, to whom his father had also given that nickname.

Born on December 30, 1975, Woods grew up in Cypress, California, 35 miles southeast of Los Angeles. He was not out of the crib before he took an interest in golf, at age 6 months, watching as his father hit golf balls into a net and imitating his swing. He appeared on the Mike Douglas Show at age 2, putting with Bob Hope. He shot 48 for nine holes at age 3 and was featured in Golf Digest at age 5. He won the Optimist International Junior tournament six times at ages 8, 9, 12, 13, 14 and 15.

Tiger played in his first professional tournament in 1992, at age 16, the Nissan Los Angeles Open and in three more PGA TOUR events in 1993. He made the 36-hole cut and tied for 34th place in the 1994 Johnnie Walker Asian Classic in Thailand, and had three additional PGA TOUR appearances. He entered Stanford University in 1994 and in two years he won 10 collegiate events, concluding with the NCAA title. His other amateur victories included the 1994 Western Amateur. He represented the United States in the 1994 World Amateur Team Championships in France and the 1995 Walker Cup Match in Wales.

He played his first major championships in 1995, making the 36-hole cuts in the Masters and the British Open, but had to withdraw from the U.S. Open because of an injured wrist. Tiger also made the cuts in the Motorola Western Open and Scottish Open. He played in three more major championships in 1996, making the cuts in two. After missing the cut in the Masters, he led the U.S. Open after 13 holes of the first round before finishing tied for 82nd place. Tiger posted a 281 total to tie the record for an amateur in the British Open, and his 66 in the second round equaled the then-lowest ever by an amateur. He tied for 22nd place.

Among the honors received as an amateur, Woods was Golf Digest Player of the Year in 1991 and 1992, Golf World Player of the Year in 1992 and 1993, Golfweek National Amateur of the Year in 1992, Golf World Man of the Year in 1994, and he was chosen for the Fred Haskins and Jack Nicklaus College Player of the Year awards in 1996.

Woods compiled one of the most impressive amateur records in golf history, winning six USGA national championships, plus the NCAA title, before turning professional on August 27, 1996. He concluded his amateur career by winning an unprecedented third consecutive U.S. Amateur title, finishing with a record 18 consecutive match-play victories.

Woods won the U.S. Junior Amateur three times and was the first to win that title more than once. He was the youngest ever to win the U.S. Junior Amateur (age 15 in 1991) and the youngest ever to win the U.S. Amateur (age 18 in 1994). With his U.S. Open victory, Tiger became the first ever to hold that title along with the U.S. Junior Amateur and U.S. Amateur titles.

The week after winning his third U.S. Amateur title, Woods played his first tournament as a professional in the Greater Milwaukee Open. It was one of only seven events left in 1996 for him to finish among the top 125 money winners and earn a player's card for the PGA TOUR.

He won twice and placed among the top 30 money winners qualifying for the Tour Championship. He finished 25th with $790,594 and won $940,420 for the year worldwide in 11 tournaments. He was the first rookie since 1990 to win twice and the first player since 1982 to have five consecutive top-five finishes.

Starting 1997 in spectacular fashion, Tiger won the season-opening Mercedes Championships with a birdie in a playoff over Tom Lehman with a six-iron shot that drew perfectly to the flag, landing two feet right of the hole and spinning back to within inches. Including the Masters, Woods won four PGA TOUR events in 1997, plus one overseas, and was the leading money winner (Arnold Palmer Award) with a then-record $2,066,833. He won $2,440,831 worldwide in 25 events.

He achieved No. 1 on the Official World Golf Ranking for the most rapid progression ever to that position. On June 15, 1997, in his 42nd week as a professional, Woods became the youngest-ever No. 1 golfer at age 21 years, 24 weeks. The previous youngest was Bernhard Langer, age 29 years, 31 weeks in 1986.

In 1998 Woods won one event on the PGA TOUR, and three times overall. He was fourth on the money list with $1,841,117 and earned $2,927,006 worldwide in 26 events. His most dramatic triumph was over Ernie Els in the Johnnie Walker Classic in Thailand. Tiger rallied with 65 in the final round after starting tied for 18th place, eight strokes behind Els, whom he beat with a birdie on the second playoff hole. He had been 11 strokes behind Els after two rounds.

In his third full season as a professional, 1999, Woods won eight times on the PGA TOUR (11 worldwide), including the PGA Championship (a one-shot victory over Sergio Garcia), and earned $6,616,585. He had a margin of $2,974,679 over runner-up David Duval, a figure greater than the previous single-year PGA TOUR record.

His dominance was such that Woods won 52 percent of all the prize money he could have won. He won 81.7 percent more than the runner-up, the highest margin since Byron Nelson in 1945 (87.2 percent) and Hogan in 1946 (85 percent). He was the first to have as many as eight PGA TOUR victories in one year since Johnny Miller won eight in 1974.

The best previous start on the PGA TOUR was by Horton Smith, who had eight PGA TOUR victories in 1929 at age 21 and 15 career victories in 1931 at age 23. By winning eight PGA TOUR titles and 11 overall in 1999, Woods had posted career totals of 15 PGA TOUR victories and 21 overall at age 23. The comparable figures for Nicklaus, through age 24 in 1964, were 12 PGA TOUR victories and 17 overall. Nicklaus had been a professional golfer for three years, one year less than Tiger.

Tiger won four consecutive PGA TOUR events to end 1999 and started 2000 with two more victories for a total of six in succession. He had to come from behind for the fifth and sixth victories. He played the last three holes in four under par at the Mercedes Championships, then defeated Els in a playoff with a 40-foot birdie putt. He trailed Matt Gogel by seven strokes with seven holes left in the AT&T Pebble Beach National Pro-Am, then played the last four holes in four under par to win by two strokes.

In 2000, Woods matched the record of Hogan in 1953 in winning three professional majors the same year. Hogan won the Masters, U.S. Open and British Open. Tiger also became the first since Denny Shute in 1936-37 to win the PGA Championship in consecutive years.

Woods won 11 tournaments in 2000, nine on the PGA TOUR, one on the PGA European Tour and the PGA Grand Slam. In addition, Woods and Duval won the World Cup team title for the U.S. He earned $9,188,321 on the PGA TOUR ($11,034,530 worldwide) and broke the TOUR record of $6,616,585 which he set in 1999. His nine PGA TOUR victories in 2000 equaled the fifth highest total ever and were the most since Sam Snead won 11 in 1950.

Woods won five times, including the Masters, on the PGA TOUR in 2001 and eight times worldwide. He won five times again on TOUR in 2002, and seven times worldwide, and was the TOUR's leading money winner for the fourth consecutive year with $6,912,625 ($8,417,188 worldwide).

At the conclusion of 2002, Woods's eight professional major championships and three U.S. Amateur titles brought his total to 11 majors through age 26, two more than Nicklaus at that age. Nicklaus had seven professional major victories and two U.S. Amateur titles

He won a total of 20 times from 2003-06, lead the TOUR's money list twice and capturing four majors (2005 Masters, 2005-06 British Opens and 2006 PGA Championship). He won the 2005 Masters in a one-hole playoff against Chris DiMarco and the 2005 British Open for a second time at St. Andrews. His victory at the Old Course coincided with Nicklaus's last appearance in a major and allowed Woods to join Nicklaus as the only players to win the Grand Slam twice. His emotional win the following year at the British Open at Royal Liverpool came two months after his father's death. He won the 2006 PGA Championship by five strokes at Medinah CC, the same venue where he won the event in 1999.

He began 2007 with his seventh consecutive PGA TOUR victory and ended the year with a total of seven official wins including a second-consecutive PGA Championship, a first-place finish on the TOUR money list, a seventh career Vardon Trophy and a win at the Target World Challenge.

In 2008, he won four of six PGA TOUR events including his 14th major at the U.S. Open – his last event of the year before season-ending knee surgery, -- plus the Dubai Desert Classic and finished second on the TOUR money list in just six starts. At his major win at Torrey Pines, Woods sank a 12-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole to force an eventual 19-hole playoff (tied at even-par 71 after 18 holes) the following day. He later revealed that he had played the tournament with a torn anterior cruciate ligament in his left knee and a double stress fracture in the same leg.

In 2009, he returned to the winner's circle after 286 days and ended the year leading the PGA Tour in victories (6) and money ($10,508,163). He also won his first tournament in Australia.

In 2010 he finished T4 at both the Masters and the US Open and lost in a playoff at the Chevron World Challenge. In 2011 he again finished T4 at Augusta, recorded the winning point for the US Team at the Presidents Cup and won the Chevron World Challenge by one stroke with birdies on hole Nos. 17 and 18.

He captured three tournaments in 2012 including his seventh Arnold Palmer Invitational (his first full-field PGA Tour victory in 30 months), his fifth Memorial Tournament and his second AT&T National. The win in Washington, DC moved him past Nicklaus on the PGA Tour all-time victory list (74). Earlier in the year he scored his lowest final round in his PGA Tour career, a 62, for a second-place finish at the Honda Classic.

In 2013, he won three of his first five tournaments, including his 75th PGA Tour title at the Farmers Insurance Open. It was his eighth win overall at the Torrey Pines course. He later won the WGC-Cadillac Championship and his eighth Arnold Palmer invitational. The latter tied him with Sam Snead for the most victories at a single event, and also moved him to No. 1 in the Official World Golf Ranking for the first time since October, 2010. Win No. 4 in 2013 came at The Players Championship and his fifth victory was at the WGC-Bridgestone. It was also his eighth win at Bridgestone equaling his API mark for wins in a single event and same golf course (also Torrey Pines South Course). Voted PGA Tour Player of the Year by his peers (11th time), and also won PGA Player of the Year (11), PGA Tour money title (10) and Vardon Trophy (9) for low stroke average. Scored his third straight Presidents Cup cup-clinching match helping the US Team win 18 ½ to 15 ½.

Woods was limited to just nine events during the 2013-14 season with a recurring back injury and a subsequent successful microdiscectomy for a pinched nerve (March 31). In 2014-2015, his schedule was again abbreviated and he recorded one top 10 finish at the Wyndham Championship, an event he hadn't played previously.

After a third successful back procedure, Woods returned to competitive golf after a 466 day layoff at the 2016 Hero World Challenge where he finished 15th. In 2017 he underwent a fourth back procedure, this time fusion surgery, and started three events, one on the PGA Tour.

In 2018 Woods returned to the winner's circle for the first time in five years (2013, 1,876 days) with a 2-stroke victory at the Tour Championship. The win in Atlanta placed him second in the FedExCup points standing. He finished T2 at the Valspar Championship and second at the PGA Championship. He also led the British Open on the back nine on Sunday. Overall, Woods recorded seven top 10 finishes and ended the year 13th on the Official World Golf Ranking. He received a Captain's pick for the 2018 Ryder Cup.

Sports Illustrated selected Woods as the 1996 and 2000 Sportsman of the Year, the first to win the award more than once. L'Equipe (France) selected him as the 2000 World Champion of Champions. The Associated Press chose Woods as the Male Athlete of the Year for 1997, 1999 and 2000. He and Michael Jordan are the only athletes to win that award three times. He was chosen ESPY Male Athlete of the Year in 1997 (tied with Ken Griffey, Jr.), 1999, 2000 and 2001. The founding members of the World Sports Academy, in voting for the Laureus Sports Awards, also selected him as the 1999 and 2000 World Sportsman of the Year. In 2008 BusinessWeek chose Woods No. 1 in The Power 100 for the most influential people in sports. In 2009 he was selected AP Athlete of the Decade. Woods received 56 of 142 votes cast by AP editors throughout the country. He was also inducted into the Stanford Athletics Hall of Fame.

Woods was selected as the 1997, 1999, 2000-2003, 2005-2007, 2009, 2013 Player of the Year by the PGA TOUR (Jack Nicklaus Award) and the PGA of America and by the Golf Writers Association of America in 1997, 1999, 2000-2003, 2005-2007, 2009. His adjusted scoring average averages in 2000 and 2007 of 67.79 strokes were the lowest ever and earned him the Bryon Nelson Award on the PGA TOUR and the Vardon Trophy from the PGA of America. He also had an actual scoring average in 2000 of 68.17 breaking Nelson's record of 68.33 in 1945.

Back:

March, 2014 Forced to withdraw from The Honda Classic after the 13th hole during Sunday's final round with back pain and spasms
Unable to compete in the Arnold Palmer Invitational because of back pain and spasms

April 1, 2014      Announced he would miss the Masters and several subsequent tournaments after undergoing a successful microdiscectomy for a pinched nerve on March 31.

Returned to the PGA Tour at the Quicken Loans National (June 23-29).

August 3, 2014      Withdrew from the WGC-Bridgestone Invitational after his tee shot at No. 9 Sunday with back pain and spasms. Later said it was a sacrum injury.

February 5, 2015      Withdrew from the Farmers Insurance Open after 11 holes with tightness in his back.

September 18, 2015      Announced he had undergone a second successful microdiscectomy surgery on September 16 and wouldn't compete for the remainder of the calendar year.

October 30, 2015      Announced that on October 28 he had undergone a successful follow-up procedure to his September back surgery to relieve discomfort.

April 20, 2017      Announced that on April 19 he had undergone successful back surgery. Due to previous herniations and three surgeries, Woods's bottom lower back disc severely narrowed causing sciatica and severe back and leg pain. Conservative therapy, including rehabilitation, medications, limiting activities and injections, failed as a permanent solution and Woods opted to have surgery. The procedure was a minimally invasive Anterior Lumbar Interbody Fusion (MIS ALIF) at L5/S1. The surgery entailed removing the damaged disc and re-elevating the collapsed disc space to normal levels. This allows the one vertebrae to heal to the other. The goal is to relieve the pressure on the nerve and to give the nerve the best chance of healing.

Oblique:      Announced on August 9, 2019 that he suffered a strained oblique and had to withdraw prior to the second round of The Northern Trust

Right Leg & Ankle:

February 24, 2021      Announced on the morning of February 24th he had been in a single-car accident in California, where he underwent long surgical procedures on his lower right leg and ankle.
